101 World Class One-liners for Parenting Difficult Kids

by Norma Y. Leben and Debra Sale Wendler

Short, sweet, and surprising one-liners are your unemotional comebacks to your difficult child's rude and whiny remarks. The right one-liner said within six seconds will work to address the issue while respecting the child and reaffirming the parent's position. The issues are the values, life principles, or life skills your child forgot when he began to assert his imaginary acquired power through disrespectful remarks and obnoxious behavior. One-liners work better than the old methods of threatening and yelling. Here are two one-liners you'll learn (Say them in a flat, monotone voice for the best results.) When your child whines and complains say, "I hear you. What are YOU going to do about it?" (Watch the wheels in his head start turning.) When he says, "I hate my life!" say, "Tough! It's the only one you have. You need to learn to like at least part of it." (See him start looking outside himself a little to see what he appreciates.) The magic of these one-liners is that after studying them parents will be prepared with a verbal response instead of just standing there speechless tolerating their child's verbal assaults, which the child perceives as "I'm smarter! You don't deserve respect."

- ◆ One-liners are grouped into seven categories for quick study.
- ◆ Inspiration for creating your own, parenting one-liners!
- ◆ Encourages the child to think again & use better choices in words/action.
- ◆ 8.5" x 11" size, 12 printed pages.
